Voltalia, proud participant to the Founding Conference of the International Solar Alliance

Sebastien Clerc, CEO of Voltalia was part of the French delegation which travelled to India with President Macron over the last weekend. The main purpose of the presidential visit was to formally launch the International Solar Alliance [<http://isolaralliance.org>].

Many ISA countries in Africa and Latin America are strategic to Voltalia, with a number of ongoing projects.

This travel was the opportunity for many quality discussions with representatives of the signatory countries, French government officials and CEO's of French most prominent companies.
